Collective Security

The first Great War was a conflict waged to end all wars, and to make the world safe for democracy. It is not the purpose here to analyze the various causes that have brought the world to its present catastrophic condition. It will suffice to say that if there had been a majority of opinion on the part of the world's peoples in favor of Versailles, the League of Nations might today be forced under a second catastrophe. Expediency is a great teacher, and we can well profit from the knowledge gained by the tragic events of the past few years. Again we hear the oft-repeated phrase that there shall be no repetition of a struggle for world domination. The patient fact is that unless the world's peoples are unanimous in their determination to stand up to the aggressor, there will be no guarantee of peace.

This is every reason to believe that the subjugated nations will ever into play what would lead to their national security in the future. The experienced they are now passing through would certainly warrant this conclusion.

World Revolution

In the last war, nations which fought with the Allied cause are now in league with the forces of destruction. The peoples who were our friends are now our enemies. The present war has been more fittingly termed a world revolution, as there are now few nations who are not directly or indirectly engaged in it. The only way to keep the peace is to determine on whom we can depend to keep the peace in future? It would mean that only by the formation of a Commonwealth of Nations, closely knit in a common ideal and purpose, can we hope to maintain our freedom of thought and action, and guard ourselves against aggression. In such a covenant there could be no concept of neutrality or solidar isolationism, or irrationalism. It must be clearly understood that we will not hesitate to make any sacrifice necessary to maintain a world at peace.

A Directive Force

It would appear fitting that the principles of democratic countries could well take a prominent place in the direction of a force of world opinion that would never again condone the act of aggression or any collective movement to disrupt the peace. The Atlantic Charter is the initial step in this direction. The declaration was subscribed to by twenty-six United Nations, many of them suffering under the heel of the oppressor. It will require a strong and determined leader to bring about the principles of collective action. We shall have to guard against any injustice, either economic or social. The fundamental principle of democracy that all men as well as nations should enjoy equal opportunity must be maintained. Trade restrictions will of necessity have to be imposed, and the principles of international justice extended to all nations. Only by setting an example of true justice in our relations with other peoples can we be assured of a strong force of united nations that will stand together to oppose the aggressor.

Must Use One Measure

Cord of Wood When Stocked

Contains 128 Cubic Feet

How much is a cord of wood?

In case you do not know, the wartime Prices and Trade Board has decided the point because a cord of wood has been put on the same scale of measurement as a A. R. Mackie Saskatchewan prices and supply representative announces.

According to J. McG. Stewart, cost estimator, a cord of wood from now on will be 128 cubic feet of stacked wood.

In the past, three and four-foot lengths were piled up and they measured three feet in a cord of wood, but not necessarily twice wide. Every three-foot length meant a one-foot block missing, and 20 or 30 of such lengths meant a fair-sized amount of wood.

There is to be one measure across Canada for a cord of wood and it is to be 128 cubic feet. Further, every primary producer or dealer in wood shall prepare an invoice to receive payment of fuel used with the invoice the quantity by cord, or fraction of a cord, sold and the invoice shall be delivered to the consumer along with the wood.

Sawdust is to be regarded as fuel-wood under the terms of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board order.

Just One Letter

Not Paired on Rolling Stock Means Saving For Railways

Now that salvage and economy are very much in the foreground, says J. C. K. Marketing, I recall a story of the days of the British railroads—the days when a locomotive driver, whose destroyer was escorting was about 150 miles from home a gate got up; the destroyer's engine developed a defect, and being unable to keep her head on a long course she shipped a hole in her hull, causing damage, ripped off a hatch-cover and flooded the after compartments.

As the gale abated the wind blew fair again and the captain asked for assistance which would take him to safety.

The morning as he came down to work I looked, idly at first and then with mounting indignation, at the stream of cars passing with only one person in each. I have no doubt that you have felt the same way myself.

Do you think the same way about it when you have an errand to do?

Or do you just hop into the car and drive off?

Some time ago one of these drivers was devoted to the jointly soldiers of the Armoured Corps. They, and the airmen who bomb Germany and the Philippines; they and the men who man the submarines and destroy torpedoes are men we should have our gaze on.

There is nothing very jaunty-looking about a soldier who has been taken prisoner or killed. I know so many of you I have seen them. And men are going to be taken prisoner again, whether they be mobile forts—whether they be tanks, armoured cars, universal carriers, bombers or submarines become immobilized for lack of gasoline.

What is the answer? Simple. It is that that is how close war is to us.

One extra joy-ride or one trip by car that could have been carried out afoot may mean the hair's breadth that separates life and death for the man who is fighting.

To go to war, even walking to the movies, can be a form of war-work, a form of soldiering in the Individual Citizen's Army.

Observing food and price regulations is another way of serving.

A. E. Ballou, commanding Training Centres in camp and on active service soldiers and sailors put in long hours at strenuous work. Their training simulates actual fighting—and it makes them burn up energy.

To replace that strenuous, hearty meals must be supplied. That's where the careful observer of the food regulations comes in. Every time the householder private uses a little imagination, he can make a cake with a substitute for sugar, they are releasing that much energy for Canada's "Men at Arms."

And the housewife Lance-Corporal or is she at least a major in your household? Try together a mighty mess of shank-beans, onions, carrots, a little—not too much—turnip and a sage leaf or two instead of the usual meal of a can or two of this or that enroute to the Royal Canadian Ordnance Depot.

By leaving just a little more metal available for arms, ammunition or even tanks.

Hence a list of kitchen ammunition.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

A Russian broadcast said a new center has been established in Germany regarding salaries of foreign workers "by whom we get 75 per cent. of their earnings, the remaining 25 per cent. is kept back until they have finished their work."

The 23,000-ton British aircraft carrier, HMS Ark Royal, which the Germans last year sold to the United States navy yards at Norfolk, Va., was reported to be back in British waters.

Canada's timber controller, A. S. Noyes, met with the Canadian agent, his technical assistant, G. H. Rochester, for conferences with the British timber controller regarding wartime supply to Britain.

Mussolini told a meeting of Fascist officials in Rome that Italy faces a food shortage and that the Italian inflation is growing, the British Broadcasting Corporation reported.

Gen. G. B. Neethen of the Canadian forces in Great Britain died after an appendectomy. He was 88.

More than 1,500 Salvation Army men now are serving in the Canadian army, said a return tabled in the House of Commons.

The United States war production board has prohibited manufacture of sewing machines and attachments after June 15.

During a tour of an aircraft factory the King and Queen christened two big bombers "George" and "Elizabeth."

Solves Old Problem

Golden Girl Has Succeeded In Developing Artificial Eye That Moves

An artificial eye that moves in conjunction with the real one, enabling doctors here to seek results for years, has been developed by a New Orleans oculist who reports its successful use in 10 cases.

The eye is made of lucite, a com-pirical plastic which can be fitted to the muscles to permit motion.

Dr. Theodore J. Dimitry, director of the department of ophthalmology at the State University Medical College at New Orleans, announced development of the moving eye after 35 years of attention to the problem.

He has not yet made his discovery available for commercial manufacture but has employed it in his private practice and in treatment of charity patients at the L.S.U. clinics.

Petal Yokes Are Flattering

By ANNE ADAMS

Fashion goes feminine in the afternoon. Pattern 4026 by Anne Adams! The scalloped "petal" yokes are new and make a girl look like a princess. Doesn't the little sash in front add a beguiling touch? An all-round belt is optional. It's a simple, practical dress because of the princess paneling in back and the long panel in front. It's a great summer evening. Let the Sewing Instructor guide you! Pattern 4026 is available in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 2½ yards of fabric.

Send twenty cents in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Give full size, name, address and store number and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Department, Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McPherson Ave., E. Winnipeg, Man.

No Vacation This Year

German Children Must Work In Vacations And By Law

German high school boys and girls will spend their summer vacations this year working in munitions factories under a plan mobilizing all German labor. The measure, known as Berlin springer, to the Basel National Zeitung at Berlin, Switzerland.

Younger students are being mobilized for farm work, and schools in some sectors will be closed immediately so that they may go into field camps or despatch schools.

Within a few weeks, it was said, there will be scarcely a German man or woman not engaged in some manner of war work.

The biggest gap in the labor front, however, will be filled by increasing use of war prisoners and civilians imported from conquered lands, the advices reported.

SO YOU'RE GOING TO DO A PLAY?

I presented you a list of plays to read during the summer, both one and three acts. Here they are and don't worry, they are difficult to set up. Next week I'll give you details for that, too. Here you plays:

Three Act Plays

"The Little Foxes," a story of a woman who is determined to get into the family of her husband, who is ruthless, avaricious and tyrannical. But her husband can't stand that much, she decides. It's a tritely tragic play.

"The Male Animal," the story of a woman who is determined to get out of the usual run and how things did get stormy, but later turned out to be good.

"Ethan Frome," a story of a triangle which ended in tragedy, but even though it's tragic, it's good.

"The Tally Method," the story of a woman who made up her mind that she would never marry again, but was good friends with her family.

"With Father," a comedy, the story of a son whose father still insisted on ruling the home.

"Arsenic and Old Lace," now becoming quite a movie, is the story of two old ladies who have taken over their house and what happens to the people who enter their home—elderberry wine, Good mystery.

"Ladies in Retirement," a story of what lengths a woman will go to protect her sister. Good mystery story.

"Love Letters," a play by Paul Green when the people in Roanoke Colony wished to celebrate the 350th anniversary of the landing of Raleigh's colonists.

The plays are made of lucite, a com-pirical plastic which can be fitted to the muscles to permit motion.

Dr. Theodore J. Dimitry, director of the department of ophthalmology at the State University Medical College at New Orleans, announced development of the moving eye after 35 years of attention to the problem.

He has not yet made his discovery available for commercial manufacture but has employed it in his private practice and in treatment of charity patients at the L.S.U. clinics.

One Act Plays

From Samuel French, the other day, I received a bundle of plays either non-royalty or on a royalty basis, including one giving you a list and price of copies.

"Mrs. O'Leary's Cow," really five women, one man, budget play, seven copies at 30¢ each to produce.

"A Ghostly Evening," comedy, five women, three men, budget play, rollicking play.

"The Phantom Gentlemen," melodrama, three women, two men, budget play.

"The Ghost Named Henry," three women, three men, Scotch comedy, budget play.

"The Jack Dalton," four women, three men, budget, old fashioned melodrama.

"It Was Only A Farmer's Daughter," five women, three men, old fashioned melodrama, budget.

"The Devil After You," one man, four men, budget, mystery comedy.

"Sister," four women, four men, comedy, budget play, good for young people.

Plays on royalty holiday until July 1.

One copy for each member of the cast must be purchased to secure right to produce from the publisher.

"Frederick," three men, men, good for young people. A six-year-old boy wants to be an actor. His parents object. It all works out.

"When You're Young," two women, three men, The story of an English woman who comes to visit relatives in America.

"Little Darling," two men, four women. A younger sister keeps her sister's secret, and she likes her own ideas. Good for young people.

There are many others which will be good for young people.

I mentioned the above having read them. I think younger people will like them.

Let the Sewing Instructor guide you! Pattern 4026 is available in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 2½ yards of fabric.

Growth Of Crops

Inoculation And Supply
Of Nitrogen

For many centuries it has been recognized that plants belonging to the legume family—beans, peas, clovers, vetches, alfalfa and others—differ in a striking way from other cultivated plants in the effect the growth of roots has on the state of the soil. Whereas all non-legumes are dependent upon the supply of nitrogen in the soil, the legumes are able to draw on the unused quantity of this element in the air.

In order to make use of the nitrogen in the air, legumes require the co-operation of bacteria, and that without the bacteria the plants are forced to take non-nitrogenous acids upon the nitrogen in the soil. These useful nitrogen gathering bacteria, if present in the soil, enter the roots of the legumes, where they grow and multiply, drawing the nitrogen from the air and fixing it in the soil. This is the longest gap in time that comes between any meal and when you get up in the morning, your stomach is nearly empty. Therefore, it is important to have a good breakfast, as you should have a cup of coffee, bread and dashing madly out the door?

Just how this inoculation with its beneficial effects can best be applied is explained in the War Time Production Series Pamphlet No. 32 "Legume Inoculation," which may be obtained free by writing to the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Golden text: My house shall be called a house of prayer for all people. Lesson: Matthew 21:12-12. Devotional reading: Isaiah 9:7.

Explanations and Comments

Matthew's Cast Out of the Temple

Matthew 21:12-12. One of the hills of Jerusalem had been leveled and then enlarged, so that it overlooked the Valley of the Kedron and filling in, was made into a terrace. This whole enclosure, nearly a thousand feet long and 150 feet wide, example. Terrace upon terrace rose the vast structures—first the Court of the Gentiles, then the Court of Israelites, and last of all the Court of the Priests. Within the walls in the outer portion of the entire area, rose the sanctuary, or temple proper. When the temple was built, so popular was the reverence for the House of God among the masses that many were not necessary within the temple walls. The temple was a half-mile square at the Passover feast, and there were also places for the morning and evening services which had to be paid in Jewish money. What a sight it must have been to see the scene," writes Dr. Edesberg.

"The temple was a place of sacrifice, weighing down the heads of the people, deducting, bargaining—and we can easily see the terrible truthfulness of our Lord's words when he said, 'My Father's house is a mart and place of traffic.'

In righteous wrath Jesus drove out the traders and overthrew the tables of the money-changers. That was indeed a blow which will cause many to retire before the moral force of One!

The "Gentle Jesus, meek and lowly" who always occupied the temple for the purpose of ministering to the sick, the lame, the blind, etc., had given him a command to drive out the money-changers.

King Lear, when he gave his kingdom to his daughters, said, "This master-authority was in the face of Christ, and all yielded to it without a protest."

Eggs And Poultry

Cash income from the sale of poultry and eggs in 1941 is estimated at $18.1 million and $22.1 million respectively, compared with $16.7 million for poultry and $28.2 million for eggs in 1940.

Health LEAGUE presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

WATCH YOUR DIET

Are you a Dogwood Bummett, grabbing a cup of coffee for breakfast and dashing madly out the door?

What did you have for breakfast this morning? Orange juice and coffee? Maybe just toast and coffee. Perhaps nothing at all? That's a bad habit, according to the Health League of Canada.

Breakfast is the most important meal of the day, and breakfast is the longest gap in time that comes between any meal and when you get up in the morning, your stomach is nearly empty. Therefore, it is important to have a good breakfast, as you should have a cup of coffee, bread and dashing madly out the door?

The Health League advises a fruit and fruit juice breakfast.

Now you should have either cereal with milk or cream or some cooked dish of eggs or meat, like sausage or bacon, with or without pancakes.

Today's whole wheat bread is better because it has ordinary white bread, because it has more vitamins B.

One of the most important food elements in breakfast, for adults and children, both says the Health League, is milk. Plain milk should be available for cereals or cocoa or just to take plain along with the above-suggested food.

Delivered Mail

Woman Volunteered To Take Place Of Postman In Victoria

The war has given Victoria its first woman letter-carrier. Postmaster G. H. Gardner, unable to find a man to replace a regular postman, was appealed to by the Employment Service and Mrs. Florence Blanchard volunteered. She donned an arm-band and regular "postman" cap and delivered the mail without a hitch. Gardner said most men will be similarly employed if necessary.

CANADA NEEDS FLAX AND COARSE GRAINS

"The immediate war job of agriculture is to remedy the deficiency of vegetable oils and fats resulting from the cutting off of our Pacific sources of supply.

"Wherever possible, wheat growing land should be diverted to the production of coarse grains such as oats, barley, flax, corn, hay and alfalfa. Farmers must raise still more hogs, cattle and sheep and boost production of eggs and all dairy products."

Donald Gordon, Chairman, War-time Prices and Trade Board.

Pool Patronage Dividends

The Alberta Wheat Pool announces that a Patronage Dividend of $\frac{1}{4}$ of a cent a bushel will be paid during July next on deliveries of wheat and coarse grains to Pool Elevators (also platform shipments) in the crop years 1938-39 and 1939-40.

To qualify for this dividend, all who delivered grain to Pool Elevators in the years mentioned must be members of the Alberta Wheat Pool.

Non-members who delivered to Pool Elevators may become members through the acquisition, prior to July 1st, 1942, of Alberta Wheat Pool reserves to the value of $5.00. Your nearest Pool agent should be in a position to put you in touch with Pool members who have reserves for sale.

According to a circular issued by the Department of Munitions and Supply, and received locally by various dealers and tire companies, have offered the use of all their stations as receiving depots for scrap rubber. These companies and their dealers, however, are giving this service purely from patriotic motives and without any financial return.

All the rubber received will be turned over to local National Salvage Committees. From these communities the government will purchase the rubber and pay freight on cashed and trucked lots.

The Department stresses the fact that 87 per cent of all crude rubber in the world is produced in India, now under control of the Japanese.

RED CROSS PLANS DISASTER RELIEF IF CANADA INVADED

If Canada is invaded, from the east or from the west, if another strike suddenly in any part of Canada, the Canadian Red Cross is ready. A carefully perfected plan of action, groups of trained and organized Red Crosses, and necessary supplies of medical equipment, of food, blankets and clothing are there and waiting. ganizations of the Red Cross have been for whatever emergency that may preparing to meet the urgent call, if arise. Within a few hours at most the Canadian Red Cross can be mobilized and made available wherever there is need.

Expedited in making sudden emergencies such as fire, flood, tornado or famine, the Canadian Red Cross has organized to meet the demands of war and peace. In addition to its own resources the plan provides as over 200,000 men the national, provincial and local organizations across the country. They tell stories and disseminate news, the last detail of cards for registering those who need relief and requisition forms for supplies that are needed. It is born of the spirit of self-sacrifice, meeting every type of emergency where numbers of people are suddenly plunged into helplessness and suffering beyond the capacity of local relief agencies.

Quickly, when need arises, this plan can put into action all the resources the Red Cross has to go to work with the military authorities, the Air Raid Precaution organization and other local agencies as well as police and fire departments. Their responsibility is clearly defined—in the event of disaster “to assist families and individuals to the extent that their needs can be met and cannot be met by the families themselves.” This infrared must be given proper medical attention, the hungry must be fed, the homeless must be clothed and given accommodation. Families must be reunited, relatives must be notified and the results of frantic enquiries must be answered.

When disaster strikes, people turn naturally to the Red Cross, and to carry on the Red Cross campaign. The Society needs $90,000,000 this year, and the national drive is now on to secure these funds. When the canvasser calls, give him time to explain his work. Or better still, do not wait for the canvasser, but call at your local campaign headquarters and give your donation gratefully.

and when it comes. Hospital supplies, surgical equipment and thousands of blankets have been stored at strategic points along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. These supplies will be decentralized for a 25-bed hospital unit, of which some 30 will be located in coastal cities and towns ready for use when needed. In addition there are complete portable surgical units to be placed,

But the importance of all these measures strikes either in time of peace or in time of war is the urgent need nucleus of skilled workers to put it into effect. The Canadian Red Cross has now 1,000,000 members in the local branches of its provincial and local organizations across the country. HOG PRODUCTION

Now Shifting From The East To The West

An interesting shift in the way the war is shifting and changing the agricultural picture in Canada is given in the most recent figures on hog production in the Dominion. The supply of Wiltshire sows, for prime bacon and pork cuts, has become Canada's greatest contribution to Britain's food-basket, and the current average price of $1.60 per pound, of which slightly more than one-half already has been purchased for British food ministry account.

Before the war Ontario was the home of the centre of hog raising, yet in the first three months of 1942 the western provinces produced 1,066,916 of a total of 1,643,245 hogs graded. In the same period of 1941 the western provinces totalled 795,156 out of a total of 1,644,511.

This shift of an old-established Ontario farm industry to the west has been gaining momentum since the beginning of the war. It is largely the result of two things: wartime conditions of prairie farmers becoming aware they can market their grains more profitably in the form of hogs than by shipping them grains east to be fed to animals on the farms of Quebec farms. This shift of an important branch of agriculture from east to west is almost certain to have important war effects.

With shipping of grain or production to a considerable extent the Ontario and Quebec farmer is paying more attention to dairying. This is evident in cheese production figures for the first three months of 1942, up 10,000,000 pounds almost 100 per cent, over the same period last year. Quebec province is becoming an increasingly important factor in the cheese problem—Ottawa Journal.

It's A Queer War

As Illustrated By Liner Which Was Exempt From Attack

The strangeness of this war-cavelled world is illustrated by an announcement from Washington that a certain ship had been taken as a prize in its voyage to New York. Three years ago such sailings were listed with the shipping news, and none save those directly concerned took much notice of it. Now, except in unusual occasions, such a ship in the world gives out current news about its shipping plans and movements.

Production Of Food

Contribution Of The Farmer Is Not Fully Appreciated

What the Canadian farmer has accomplished since the war began in producing more crops, livestock and dairy products is even now not fully appreciated. Food is the main necessity of man and beast and in peace or war. Without food no human being or animal can live; but by the time taken the food can be produced may not be taken for granted. Far too often, not the slightest thought is given to the fact that food cannot be successfully produced without careful planning, and to be successful without the determination, courage and unflinching courage of the farmer.

No profession, not even that of the sailor on the high seas, is so subject to the caprices of nature, so dependent on the weather, as farming. A valiant optimist, has to combine in his one person the attributes of a skilful strategist, an economist, a chemist and a weather prophet, combining all these he has, and the farmer has to plan his strategy as to what and when he will plant, often in the face of handicaps and under difficult or very trying conditions, but he maintains undiminished courage.

Without the planning throughout the length and breadth of Canada, both the necessary quality and quantity of food would fail. On many a Nature strip, however, the hopeful farmer becomes aware they can market their grains more profitably in the form of hogs than by shipping them grains east to be fed to animals on the farms of Quebec farms. This shift of an important branch of agriculture from east to west is almost certain to have important war effects.

With shipping of grain or production to a considerable extent the Ontario and Quebec farmer is paying more attention to dairying. Memphis Banned Unnecessary Street Noises And Traffic Accidents Dropped

The Bradford Expositor says: "Motor cars can be heard in the distance, but the roar of an airplane is a moment's notice." It is not an annoyed pedestrian's theory; it has been substantiated by the records at Memphis, Tennessee. In that city, in Bradford and elsewhere, the police have made efforts to induce the public to blare away with their automobile horns whenever anyone or anything impeded their immediate progress. The result was that traffic accidents were down on the nerves. As this paper speculated some weeks ago, it seemed likely that an imprudent tour or a horn might make a pedestrian jump in danger instead of outraging the driver who might distract another motorist's attention momentarily and so lead to a mishap.

The diplomatic immunity is preserved, but the war has been seen as a time in which the common, children, old people and sick people who have been destroyed at sea by Axis warcraft during these past few years couldn't have had that immunity too.—New York Times.

The Admiral's Error

Unaware That Perfect Servant Was Not Real Cabin Boy

This letter was written by Walter E. Carter, of Berkleyfield, Calif., in Life Magazine:

"The revelations appearing in recent issues of Life concerning the Japanese spy system in the U.S. are amply confirmed by the Admiral Horatio D. Evans, who had a Japanese cabin boy who was the epitome of an Admirable Crutchton and the perfect servant.

After three or four years of service the Jap came to known and said he had inherited an estate in Japan and was obliged to quit and return to protect his interests. Evans was loath to part with this paragon, but finally promised him his job back at any time if he saw fit to return.

A few months later Evans took his family to Japan where its famous 'good-will' tour in 1907. In Yokohama harbor it devolved upon him to pay a call on the Japanese admiral who proved to be none other than his former servant. "Since when?" queried Evans, "has Japan been making admiral out of cabin boys?"

"We never did," replied the urbane Jap. "I was a ranking captain of the Japanese Navy when I worked for you."

"Farmerette Brigade" Has Neat Blue Uniform

Uniforms of royal blue are the official off-duty dress for the farmerettes of the Ontario service force. The outfit, so neatly modelled here by Shirley Elsley of Guelph, Ruth Steiner of New Hamburg, Shirley Hannan of Guelph and Sue Schreiter of Kitchener, contrasts favorably with the blue work dresses of Eleanor Robertson of Guelph. On the shoulders of the dresses are metal badges. "O.P.S.F." and on the cap is the badge, "Farm erette Brigade," and the horn of plenty.

Giant Locomotives

Built In Britain, One Has Been Named "Canadian Pacific"

The name of one of giant mixed traffic locomotives of the Merchant Navy class built by the Southern Railway was with due ceremony named "Canadian Pacific" at Victoria Station by Mr. F. W. Motley, managing director manager, Canadian Pacific, London.

When unveiled by Mr. Motley, the engine's glittering nameplate was revealed beneath a bright emblem of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Company.

The "Merchant Navy" class designation of the locomotives is unique.

The guard presented arms as the bell was drawn aside. When the naming ceremony was over, almost imperceptibly the giant engine slipped away from the platform—Canada's Weekly (London).

By decree of the federal authorities in Switzerland, embassies and delegations of political organs of belligerent countries will from now on be proscribed.

Political embassies will be allowed to remain, but the decree says, as far as Swiss neutrality is concerned, that Swiss relations with foreign countries might be compromised by embassies of an offensive character.

KEEPING BEES

Farmers Can Augment Sugar Supply By Using Honey

Farmers who already have bees, and those who may be going to keep some this year will be able to augment their limited sugar supply by that excellent sweet—honey.

The honey bees kept through the winter are reminded by C. B. Gooderham, the Dominion Apiculturist, that springtime is the most critical period for beekeepers. It is then that the bees in the colony are weak and vitality and their food supply is low.

During the early spring and summer four things are essential to the upbuilding of a colony:

- (1) A profusion of flowers.
- (2) Adequate water supply.
- (3) Protection during the changeable weather in spring, especially from cold winds.
- (4) Space for maximum brood production and the storage of surplus pollen.

The beekeeper is responsible for providing these needs. They are important if a good crop of honey is desired.

The will it, is expected, be a good market at encouraging prices for all the honey that can be produced this year. Moreover, beeswax is in particular demand. It is used in several industries over the world and beeswax is likely to sell higher than ever before.

A special pamphlet, No. 21, of the War Time Protection series entitled, "Beekeeping Management," can be obtained from Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

A Code Of Rules

To Make The World A Safe Place For Free Nations

The whole experience of the last 25 years makes it clear that the British system of rule by which the world is governed, in its various forms for thousands of years prior to this, is no longer adequate for the security of free nations; that the upsurge of Nazism and Japanese militarism is an effort to rule the world by force. British imperialism with its own slave-based imperialism; and that when that challenge has been overthrown, there will still be the necessity for world order and stabilisation in world a code of rules which make this earth a safe place for free nations, including ours.

To refuse to recognize the need for rule by force is to invite the rule of Hitler and Mussolini. The United States, in which a new spirit of democracy will be born, must be prepared with its own slave-based imperialism; and that when that challenge has been overthrown, there will still be the necessity for world order and stabilisation in world a code of rules which make this earth a safe place for free nations, including ours.

We are indeed fighting this war in vain if we do not facing make it our purpose to avoid facing such a choice.—Minneapolis Star Journal.

Said To Be Effective

Scientists Believe They May Have Remedy For Common Cold

Common cold, caused by a virus, has been found to be a carrier of contagious disease and through the agency of the humble carrot.

After seven years of research, a group of scientists believe—guardedly that they have developed a specific remedy for the common cold. Major seed companies are marketing the credit for its possibilities as a commercial product in powder form were not dreamed of until Mr. Clements, a scientist, came along.

Since that woman who has to wash hats to purify them from a tonic compound to rid them of rats, and from making salas dressings to pickling vegetables, nothing has been more effectively used in wintertime for preserving and clarifying tinge wine and for the removal of musty odors received.

Dr. Fred Motley, national director of the Canadian Red Cross, has expressed great satisfaction over the results of the research.

He said: "The money received is emphasized, will be used in providing comforts for the men of the Canadian Armed Forces, the Royal Canadian Air Force, the Royal Canadian Navy, the Canadian Active Service Forces, and the Royal Canadian Air Force. Its benefits will also be felt by civilians of the United Nations who have suffered through the vicissitudes of war."

CHAPTER XX.

As Ransome turned into the lane, he saw the group of figures out by the old stone slate quaters. Huddled together were the Shadwell servants, and he could hear their muffled weeping.

As he took the stairs rapidly, Ransome knew it was over. Dr. Forrestell came slowly from the house, his shoulders sagged and his head was bowed. He was thinking that, with all of the knowledge of medical men and the science of this modern age, it had been impossible to keep Maria here.

He heard Ransome's quick step and came forward to lay his hand on the young man's arm. It had been years since he had seen Ransome Todd cry. The boy had stoically hidden his feelings, but now they burst without whispering. Together they went downstairs to the living room and seated themselves together for a moment.

"It is better than way, Ransome. Only Maria and I know how she suffered at times."

In the days that followed, Ransome was like a writh. Ransome knew that she had not allowed him to be alone in the presence of the father. The house was different with its group of neighbors and the friends of long years coming to pay their last respects. Tamar stayed in her room with Ransome, waiting for her. She was so white and silent, almost silently bearing her grief. Excepting to see him for a brief moment, she had asked to be alone.

Shadwell will never be the same again, he told her mother. Maria and Randolph had been loved and recognized by Tahlahneka. Even Shadwell's poorest days, she had done extra services for the needy.

Sitting alone and looking toward the Christians, Maria had knitted and stitched layettes for babies, made warm shawls for elderly women who needed them, and given from her own small stores to poor, ery-strik families.

She had sent flowers from their garden to the sick and to the churches; and she had listened to many stories of broken families, giving what help she could when it seemed as though it were impossible to comfort and help.

And now Tahlahneka was paying its respects to Maria Randolph. The people came in streams to the home. Tamar had been going in and out, the drive was never empty those two days.

Tamar made herself move about, trying to do the necessary things for her father's sake. She must keep up.

After the great house was silent and lonely, Tamar realized that little things which her mother had said to her, had been said in preparation of this time which she knew would come. In spite of all of Maria's tendings, Tamar's body ached with grief.

Her eyes burned with the tenaciousness of all the unshed tears held in abeyance. Unchecked, she knew they must wash out of all her determination to be of comfort to her father. She must be all tied up together and where one was absent the others were bound to fall short of their potentialities.

Tamar knew that she must get out of the house this afternoon. She must sleep, exercise and eat. Once she had been sent down to the servants' good food that was brought in by friends, that had remained untouched. Her father and her father would get out together and with a bit they would both be hungry.

Phoebe's philosophy was based on the fundamental principles of life—rest, sleep, exercise and food. They must be all tied up together and where one was absent the others were bound to fall short of their potentialities.

Tamar knew that she must get out of the house this afternoon. She must sleep, exercise and eat. Once she had been sent down to the servants' good food that was brought in by friends, that had remained untouched. Her father was going to present the Cricket Hill. She had thought it was the best thing for him, when he had mentioned it.

It was when she learned of the death preceding the events of the day preceding her mother's death. They returned to her with a rush of misery, and she was startled to think that she had forgot all about them.

How could that hold the difference?

It was when she learned of the death preceding the events of the day preceding her mother's death. They returned to her with a rush of misery, and she was startled to think that she had forgot all about them.

Phoebe had tried to talk with Tamar, but the girl was too bitter and hurt to listen. "Please, Phoebe, I know that you are trying to be kind, but I'd rather be left by myself."

The afternoon Phoebe heard the ring of the telephone. Maybe it was Ransome Todd. She hurried to pick it up hopefully. Maybe Mr. Todd would come out tonight and sit with Tamar and her father at the dinner table.

Phoebe scowled as she heard Christopher Sande's voice. He had sent flowers, but had not appeared during the week. She sat very quietly, looking toward the stairs.

"No 'Nam, Miz Randolph ain' home to nobody. Nobody but jes' her own folks. Ah'll take a message off ya, child," he gabbled.

"Christopher?" came the sharp note of Tamar's voice on the extension upstairs in her room. "Phoebe! I'll take my call, please," she said firmly.

Phoebe clicked the receiver sharply, then stubbornly lifted it "sleety." "Drat dat man! Ah knows Miz Randolph didn't lak goin' to see herself."

"What is that? Is your message, Christopher?" Tamar's voice was shaking.

"Oh, Tamar, I've wanted to come to see you. I could hardly stay away. May I come tonight?"

"I'm sorry, Christopher. I'm not seeing any one just yet."

Phoebe gingerly replaced the telephone and crept quietly down the hall. Maria! It would be better for her to leave, to see someone—but not Mr. Christopher Sande.

Phoebe dropped her head back on the old rocker's head rest and gazed at her free hand over her mouth. "The man had no manners. Wantin' to play a social call on Tamar, do he? Dat's what kin' o' man he am," she thought.

"I'm sorry, Christopher. I'm not seeing any one just yet."

Phoebe gingerly replaced the telephone and crept quietly down the hall. Maria! It would be better for her to leave, to see someone—but not Mr. Christopher Sande.

Phoebe dropped her head back on the old rocker's head rest and gazed at her free hand over her mouth. "The man had no manners. Wantin' to play a social call on Tamar, do he? Dat's what kin' o' man he am," she thought.

A PARADE OF TANKS

Can you imagine what a sight 250 military "tanks" would make on parade? If they rolled past at the rate of one a minute, it would take over four hours to get through. That would turn the tide of battle! Yet, the amount of metal that goes into 250 tanks is the calculated savings made by the War Industries Board. In reducing the number of the styles in plumbing and heating fixtures.

Loaded up to the gunwales, these tanks couldn't attempt to carry the Canadian fighting men, who will be able to get into battle dress out of the tanks in about 10 seconds. Fighting cuffs and extra trousers from men's suits. Mr. Ed Provan, Assistant Retail Manager, the Carbon Division of the Board, said retailers throughout the new economy order will save over one and a quarter million yards of cloth a year, enough to make 321,000 tanks or battle dress for 375,000 fighting men.

English Rector: "Good morning, Thompson. You have a son and heir?"
Thompson: "Yes, sir. Our household now represents the United Kingdom."

Rector: "How is that?"
Thompson: "Well, why, see, I am English, and my wife is the nurse is Scotch, and the baby walls."

Jessie: "It says here in the paper that in Egypt women carry baskets of fruit and flowers on their heads."

Mike: "That's not so remarkable. We do that over here and call them hats."

Fior Walker: "I noticed your last customer didn't buy anything but he seemed very pleased. What did he say?"
Giel Clerk: "Me at 8.00 o'clock."

Goldeker: "Surely, Uncle Mose, you do not expect to catch any fish in that stream?"

Mose: "No, Ah don't expect to. Al's jes' shown' ma ole woman dat time to fool us turnin' in the river water."

A Scotish church held a self-denial week. At the end of the week, one of the members handed over a donation of $6, 3d, all in threepence pieces.

"Tis me, Jock," said the parson, "and it is your contribution in three penny bits?"

"Well ye seen, sir, it's my custom to give a shilling weekly, but this week, day, but as we were holding a self-denial week, I felt I must give up something." Then nodding towards the

NOTICE RE SALVAGE DEPOT

MacTavish purchased a pair of books which were guaranteed for a year. After eleven months he returned and complained that they were not standing up to the guarantee.

"Are you sure they fit you all right?" asked MacTavish.

"They fit me alright," was the answer, "but my brother on night shift says they're a bit too tight for him."

THE RED CROSS NEEDS YOUR HELP

To steel our souls against the lust of ease; To find our welfare in the general good; To hold together, merging all degrees In one wide brotherhood. To teach that he who saves himself is lost; To bear in silence though our hearts may bleed; To spend ourselves and never count the cost, For others' greater need.
